Friday, Feb. 22

9:00 Welcome and Opening Remarks

9:15 - 10:15 Augmented Intelligence and the End of Hermeneutics
Leigh Johnson, Christian Brothers University

10:30 - 11:30 Elemental Rhythms of Andean Built Environments
Omar Rivera, Southwestern University

11:45 - 12:45 Bread and Roses: Hunger, Allegory, and Philosophy
Ann Murphy, University of New Mexico

12:45 - 2:15 Lunch

2:15 - 3:15 Radical Enactive Hermeneutics
Shaun Gallagher, University of Memphis

3:30 - 5:00 Keynote Address
Conversion and Identity: On Not Knowing How to be Catholic
Anne O’Byrne, Stonybrook University

5:30 - 7:00 Keynote Address
Paths, or That Which Interprets Us
Levi Bryant, Collin College

7:30 Dinner for Participants at Café Eccell

Saturday, Feb. 23

9:30 - 10:30 Oh My Neighbors, There is no Neighbor
Harris Bechtol, Sam Houston State University

10:45 - 11:45 Touching From a Distance: Nursing and Carnal Hermeneutics
Graham McCaffrey, University of Calgary

11:45 - 1:45 Lunch

The Digital Humanities: Hermeneutics in Action
Laura Mandel, Texas A&M University

1:45 - 2:45 Gadamer on Play and the Play of Art
Cynthia Nielsen, University of Dallas

3:00 - 4:30 Keynote Address
Notes on the Illegal Condition in the State of Extraction: How Not to be an Informant
Alberto Moreiras, Texas A&M University

5:00 - 6:30 Keynote Address
Is This the End of Interpretation?
John Caputo, Villanova University

7:00 Reception at the home of Ted George and Kristi Sweet

This Symposium is generously supported by the Glasscock Center for Humanities Research, the Center of Digital Humanities Research, the Department of Philosophy, Interdisciplinary Studies, and the Department of Hispanic Studies at Texas A&M University.